Halt Barnet Council's investment in the arms trade

We the undersigned call on Barnet Council to instruct its pension fund administrators to stop investing in weapons exporters.

Public money is being invested in companies which profit from dealing in death and suffering, instead of being used ethically. The arms trade fuels wars and wastes human skills, natural resources and vast sums of money.

In recent years average returns on ethical funds have been at least as good as returns on arms manufacturers so the council cannot even claim that they make more money by owning shares in merchants of death.
